PRESCOTTIANA

HOME MADE.

And made to feel at home. What is nearer heaven than a good home, poor or rich? Will heaven be like home and shall we be made to feel "at home"?

There is one cook in Honolulu that has not as yet received his or her gold medal of honor.

Born in Virginia, far back in that happy misty past, we ate hot yeast biscuit, (snow-flake) for breakfast, (and broiled shad) and we learned that the cook, an ole black mammy, (formerly a slave) was the maker and the baker, "rising up" as early as 3 a. m. to knead the sponge for the first time, and then to sleep again; but, kneading the dough three times before giving it to the oven.

We never looked to eat such white bread as that (not even the famous French rolls of "No. 1 grade") again, in our life; for, we are growing old and time seems flying swifter than an eagle, that went so slowly once, and a whole year never seems twelve months to us and a day all too short for our plans; but, at Judge and Mrs. Dole's Thanksgiving dinner, the very same sort flashed upon our vision; and Judge Andrade, who sat to our right, ate more than his share of them—and we do not see yet by the Star that his honor has sent himself "up" for three weeks. He can't see his act a misdeed.

But Mr. Walker opposite didn't notice the rolls so very much waiting calmly for the mince-pie "minutes."

Farther down the table was Dr. McDonald and while there were still the remnants of two turkeys above him, his mind and fork seemed to linger on a boiled ham directly in front of him.

Even the host looked around anxiously, so we thought, for the home-made candy dish, an' so we benevolently said "pass" and let him take our portion.

We were looking for that pretty white kimono with more of "that kind of bread" but, alas, we saw Virginia no more for that happy and thanksgiving day A. D. 1908 and November the twenty-six.

A. M. P.
 P. S.—Mr. Low quietly remarked, when invited to partake of "pie," that if it were (not) all the same, he would like a fair dose (helping) of the apple, pumpkin and please include the mince; but later remarked that he didn't care much for pie as a general thing.

But the birds on the lanai went on singing and the fountain cooled the atmosphere and we watched that beautiful cat curled up on the rug with her kitten, almost another cat, and as we listened to the conversation going evenly and smoothly on we began to feel a certain satisfied "lull" or calming of our spirit, and said, sotto voce, "It is not a bad world, where wise judges and wise men unite and rule."

A TELEPHONE UNDER ATLANTIC

ITALIAN SAID TO HAVE SUCCEEDED IN CALLING BUENOS AYRES FROM GENOA.

MILAN, November 21.—While Professor Majorana is toiling in Rome to solve the problem of wireless telephony across the world's great oceans, another inventor, Captain Anzalone, an officer in the Italian army, whose earlier technical devices won the patronage of the French Government, claims to have finally overcome the obstacle to the transoceanic transmission of telephonic messages along submarine cables.

The best results in telephoning across big stretches of water have hitherto been obtained by a system of bobbins introduced by Mr. Pupin, an American inventor, but even between Calais and Dover the service is very erratic, and Captain Anzalone's attention was originally directed to the special study of this subject while in Paris through having the difficulties of telephonic communication between France and England vividly set before him by the French authorities.

Captain Anzalone's principle differs from those recently resorted to. "Empty a glass of water into the River Po at Turin," says he, "and you may be certain that a goodly portion of it, after allowing for evaporation and the like, will find its way to the Adriatic sea. Similarly telephonic transmission across vast oceans on my own system consists in confining microphonic currents, which in themselves are so exceedingly weak, to the care of massive electric waves, which gather them up and speed them along for indefinite distances."

This promising new Italian discovery, after successful tests across the Straits of Messina, is now being tried on the great transatlantic submarine cables between Italy, the United States and South America. It is rumored that Genoa has just performed the feat of calling up Buenos Ayres on the Anzalone telephone.

SPENT TEN CENTS ON HIS CAMPAIGN

PENNSYLVANIA HUMORIST WAS A DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS.

PITTSBURG (Pa.), November 22.—

That the United States Congress has narrowly missed capturing a real humorist is made evident by the sworn statement of campaign expenses just made by Till Reiss of Greenville, Pa.

Reiss was a candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket, but was swamped. He takes oath that he expended but 10 cents on his fight, distributed as follows:

Two letters to D. J. Driscoll, St. Mary's College, postage 4 cents.

One letter to J. W. Kelly, Marionville, postage 2 cents.

One letter to T. W. Wasser, Franklin, postage 2 cents.

One letter to C. F. Shatz, Meadville, postage 2 cents.

Reiss in his sworn statement says: "I accepted the nomination on the following platform: That I would send to each constituent in the district a package of seeds; that I would draw my salary promptly and all above my board I would bring home and spend with my constituents. As my face is so well known in the county, I did not get out cards or make any speeches. As I was an exalted Elk, I was assured I could carry Elk county."

NEW CHURCH DECIDED.

At the Christian congregational meeting last night, the proposal of the official board to build a new church at Beretania avenue and Keeaumoku street, where that body owns a lot, was ratified. Pastor McKeever and W. L. Hopper explained the steps taken and showed the desirability of removing the church home from Alakea street, a place that had outlived its usefulness as a center of church work and besides was noisy. The new location is in the heart of one of the best and most populous residence districts.
